Windy City Red Hots Chicago Style Eats

One day 28 South King Street was empty, and the next day it carried an extremely attractive sign: Windy City Red Hots! After introducing myself (with a full stomach) to Angel, the owner of this brand new establishment, I realized that I'd have to come back very soon, as the place looked absolutely outstanding. It turns out his wife Pia has exceptional designer talents that are beautifully demonstrated at their restaurant.

So, already certain that the food was good, I found my way back to order the Italian Beef sandwich and cheesy fries. The sandwich is prepared with lean Italian style roast beef, thinly sliced and topped with hot or sweet peppers. You can order this sandwich dry (light gravy); extra gravy (dipped ends, gravy on top), or dipped/wet (sandwich dipped in gravy). You can also choose fries, cheese fries, or chili cheese fries to go with it. Both my Italian Beef sandwich and cheese fries were superb!

Next, I ordered the Italian sausage, which is mild Italian sausage topped with grilled onions and sweet or hot peppers, served on a poppy seed bun. I could only eat a part of it since the Italian beef sandwich I had eaten was gigantic, but I ate enough to tell you that it was the best Italian sausage I've ever eaten. And since I'm a former New Yorker, that says a lot!

They also offer a Maxwell Street Polish Sausage sandwich, topped with mustard, grilled onions, and sport peppers on a poppy seed bun, as well as a number of other tasty Italian sandwiches. And finally, there's the Pizza Puff, a flour tortilla filled with Italian sausage, tasty home-style pizza sauce, mozzarella cheese and pizza spices. There's soda pop, coffee, and cocoa as well.

So visit Windy City Red Hots, and tell them Our Town sent you!
